My sweet baby boy... words cannot express the sadness, the grief, or the despair that weighs on my heart. The day you left this earth was the day I lost a part of me. You're humor, your compassion, your determination to get better, to do better, and to be better are just a few of the qualities that made you special. You're wierd taste in food I could never understand. You wouldn't touch anything that had onions in it or peas or carrots, but you'd enjoy a slimy slithery egg in your Ramen noodles. That's the type of thing that made you unique. I pray that you're on the highest cloud in the sky and that you're spirit wanders freely and happily to wherever you wanna be. Come visit me sometimes and know that you live on in my heart forever ♥
